Story

Toilets with cult potential

Her birthday is on World Toilet Day, she likes to collect fun facts about toilets – and when her friends are in trouble, Sonja Kaiblinger's new heroine Louise gives no quarter! With wit and imagination she battles her way through school life, proving that the 'restroom' is anything but restful!

Louise and her friends have just nipped into the girls' toilets for a minute to copy each other's homework when they make a shocking discovery: their classmate Pauline has been locked inside one of the cubicles all night. Louise suspects that uber-meanie Angelique is behind it, and decides to give her a taste of her own medicine.

And where better to put her plan into action than...well, the girls' toilets? News and gossip spread more quickly here than anywhere else. At first the plan seems to be working, and Pauline is well on her way to becoming the most popular girl in school. But then it starts to look as though Louise's brilliant scheme is going down the pan...

Press commentaries

Praise for series:

“A modern boarding school story in the style of Enid Blyton’s St Clare books. In every chapter, Sonja Kaiblinger imparts another pearl of wisdom. Definitely worth a read!”

Badische Neue Nachrichten

“A lovely, funny, colourful story that’s hard to put down.”

Hamburger Morgenpost

“This is much more than ‘bog-standard’ fiction, featuring comedy and cat fights, and an encycLOOpedia full of quirky facts about toilets.”

Westfälische Nachrichten

"Extremely funny." buecherkinder.de

“Hilarious start of a new series for girl by bestselling author Sonja Kaiblinger, full of funny incidents.”
